A Few Words with God

I may not be an expert on the heavens above,
but I know how to hope, and I know how to love.
And to you who is up there looking at me,
I pray you are happy with what you see.
With my hands held together and my head in a bow,
there is something about me I'd just like to know.
How - will the words go, when my song is finally sung?
How - will my light glow when my time is all done?

I don't understand why spilling of blood,
makes some people feel they are closer to God.
I may be a sinner and have much to atone,
but I don't think I would ever hurt anyone.
The next time I pray, well, I'm not sure when,
but since we are talking I'll ask you again
How - will the words go, when my song is finally sung?
How - will my light glow when my time is all done?

/Instrumental/ -----

I might ask a lot, like forgiveness and more,
one of the things that I know you're here for.
But I'll do my part, because this I can tell,
that the Lord often helps those who help themselves.
So each day I try, to do the right things.
And maybe a better tomorrow brings.
How - will the words go, when my song is finally sung?
How - will my light glow when my time is all done?

I don't go to church because I never knew why,
I need some instruction about a life in the sky.
When doubt surrounds me, I've not far to look,
All that I need, is in the good book.
It's just an opinion I have now and then,
but since we're still on it I'll ask once again.
How - will the words go, when my song is finally sung?
How - will my light glow when my time is all done?

/Instrumental/ -----

I try not to hold anyone above the rest,
The path that I choose will be my final test.
All I can promise is I'll do my best,
In this life you gave to me.
Well I've probably taken enough of your time,
so you will go your way and I will go mine.
Before my amen, one thing I should say,
is wish you and yours a very nice day.
So thanks for listening till next time I pray,
till next time my friend, and, oh, by the way.
How - will the words go, when my song is finally sung?
How - will my light glow when my time is all done?
How - will the words go, when my song is finally sung?
How - will my light glow when my time is all done?
